NATIONAL EXPENSES.

The warrants issued by the Treasury Department during the month of October to meet the requirements of the Government amount in round numbers to the following: Civil, Miscellaneous and Foreign Intercourse, $4,176,000; Interest on Public Debt, $1,381,000; War, $8,720,000; Navy, 4,025,000; Interior, Pensions, and Indians, $3,062,000; Total, $21,364,000. The warrants issued for the redemption of the Public Debt are included in the above.

ORDER OF THE WAR DEPARTMENT.

The following order from the War Department has been published: Soldiers for certain offences not strictly military may be sentenced by General Court Martial to confinement in a penitentiary. If any State, in a military department, has made provision by law for confinement of prisoners under sentence by a court martial of the United States, the Department Commander may designate such penitentiary confinement; but if no provision has been made by any State in the Department, the record will be forwarded to the Secretary of War for the designation of a prison. The authority which has designated the place of confinement, or higher authority, can change the place of confinement or mitigate or remit the sentence. The same rules apply to prisoners sentenced by military commissions so long as the military law remains in force; but when that law ceases to be operative the President alone can change the place of confinement or mitigate or remit the sentence.

GEN. GRANT DECLINES A PUBLIC RECEPTION AT PRESENT.

Gen. Grant, having been informed of preparations being made in this city to tender him a popular reception on his return, has written to a friend expressing his cordial thanks for the evidence of friendship on the part of the citizens and at the same time expressing a preference that no demonstration be made immediately on his arrival. The General could not say at what time he would reach Washington. It is probable that the public reception, which it is designed to tender the General, will be deferred until he has recovered from the fatigue and discomfort incident to travel, and become comfortably located at home.

END OF THE SURRATT CASE.

In the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia to-day the case of John H. Surratt was called up, the motion was to dismiss the appeal of the District Attorney from the decision of Judge Wylie, in the Criminal Court, sustaining the plea of the statute of limitations and discharging him. The Court, Judges Carter, Olin and Wylie dismissed the appeal on the ground that there was no precedent for sustaining an appeal in a case where judgment had been rendered in the Criminal Court in favor of defendant. This is the end of the Surratt case.

TREATY WITH ITALY.

The President has proclaimed a treaty between the United States and the King of Italy for the surrender to each of the contracting parties persons who shall have been convicted or charged with crimes of other than a political character. The convention continues in force for five years.

Several other proceedings, all under the auspices of the same persons who are acting in behalf of Dr. Blairsdell and the members from Kentucky, Bourbon county, are also to be examined. The Committee will then proceed to Washington to complete the examination and report immediately on the assembling of Congress.

THE GRANT RECEPTION.

A delegation comprising the Mayor, Presidents of Councils, Aldermen and other prominent citizens called at Harney (headquarters) to-day to congratulate the members of Gen. Grant's staff on the result of the recent elections, and to ascertain the probable wishes of the General in regard to a public demonstration after his arrival here. It was suggested and met with general acquiescence that his views as to time and place of such demonstration should be ascertained after he reaches here.

DECISION OF THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY.

The Secretary of the Treasury has decided that he has power to receive any legal tender notes that may have been redeemed but not cancelled, provided the amount of outstanding debts do not exceed four millions. This will obviate the necessity of further sales of bonds or gold by the Treasury, and enable the Secretary to offer substantial relief to the money market. Although opposed to a further issue of currency, he feels justified in resorting to any legitimate means to relieve the present critical condition of financial affairs.

INTERNAL REVENUE APPOINTMENTS.

POUGHKEEPSIE, November 6.—A doubtful report just received here states that Wormald and O'Baldwin fought a battle early on the morning of election day, in Putnam county. There were but few people present. Soon after the fight commenced Wormald hit O'Baldwin a terrible blow, cutting his face open from his chin to his ear, when O'Baldwin rallied and soon after by a heavy and well directed blow won the fight. The parties then left the field and procuring carriages intercepted the night express down train on the Hudson River Railroad at either Garrison and Fiskill, where they took passage in a drawing room car for New York.

After the fight was over one of the backers of O'Baldwin got into an altercation, and was dealt a terrible blow in the face by Joe Coburn. The greatest vigilance was exercised by the fighters to ward off any suspicion of the fight, and they succeeded well.

FEARS OF A GENERAL SMASH UP.

The financial panic is raging fearfully here to-day, and unless a sudden change takes place there will be a general smash up. Many who were rich a month since are beggars to-day from the effects of the money stringency. Secretary McCulloch has agreed to come to the rescue of the money market, by issuing next week fourteen millions of legal tenders in lieu of the three per cent. certificates recently cancelled. Scores of Western men who have been trying to borrow money to move crops, have gone home thoroughly disgusted with the condition of our money market, and without the desired funds.

The case of John D. Micheney, charged with perjury in the recent Internal Revenue prosecutions against Commissioner Rollins and other Internal Revenue officials, came up to-day before United States Commissioner Osborne. MR. HOFFMAN SERENADED—HE MAKES A SPEECH.

The Empire Club serenaded Mayor Hoffman, Governor elect, this evening at the Clarenden Hotel, he returned thanks and spoke at some length on the result of the recent election, and said that during the canvass he had never said an unkind word regarding Gen. Grant. If he should adopt the constitutional policy, he would earn and have the support of the Democratic party, but if his administration was of a Radical, partizan character, he would fall never more to rise. With reference to himself he said that as he had once proved that he was not afraid of rioters, neither was he afraid of those whose actions tended to produce riots. In reference to the threatened contest of the election, he said while it might be possible to deprive Senators and Representative in Congress of their seats in this way, it would be found impossible to deprive him of the power, he having been legally elected by the votes of the people of the State.

Opinions of the Press.

[From the Butler Press.]

As an able debater and most tried and steadfast Republican, Thomas M. Marshall is not surpassed by any man in the State. Western Pennsylvania now demands that Buckalew's place should be filled not only by an able but by a Western man, and no one could be selected for that high station that would give more general satisfaction. As the West by its majorities has carried the State, and Allegheny county now, as heretofore, proved herself the Banner County of the Nation, it is but a fitting tribute to both that they should have one Representative in the Senate of the United States, and we with great pleasure present Thomas M. Marshall, Esq., for that high position. Let the West and Northwest rally in his behalf and he will be nominated and elected.

[From the Bucks County Intelligencer.]

The large majority in the Pennsylvania Legislature gained by the Republicans at the late election makes sure of a Republican Senator in the place of Mr. Buckalew who goes out next spring. The only man yet suggested in connection with the place is that of Hon. Galusha Grow, one of our most distinguished Republicans. It is quite probable that one or more candidates will be brought forward from the Western counties, while the rival interests of Cameron and Curtin will doubtless be felt in the canvass. Under the circomstances, it seems to us that the election of Mr. Grow would give more general satssfaction, and excite less animosity, than that of any other man now prominent in the State.

[From the Upper Dauphin Register.]

Mr. Schofield's experience and services as a member of Congress have fitted him for the high position of United States Senator, and have made the people acquainted with his merits. His locality also is such as to add strength to the propriety of electing him. We know that other candidates are seeking this office, and it is probable that seductive influences will be brought to bear in their favor. We are aware that Mr. Schofield's friends will have to combat the cupidity and money influence of aspirants and their hopeful backers. We know the position is one to be coveted and aspired after, but the desires of no one should be encouraged who is not fully qualified to fill the position in the ablest and most satisfactory manner.

[From the Philadelphia Bulletin.]

We have surveyed the field with careful deliberation, and while we recognize the good qualities of many of those who are likely to be named for United States Senator, we are satisfied that the man most likely to meet with the widest approbation of all sections of the State is the Hon. Galusha A. Grow.

[From the Pittston Gazette.]

We know of no man who would be more acceptable to the Republicans of the State than Mr. Grow. He has been right, faithful and powerful on all the great Union and Republican measures which have claimed attention since his political career commenced, and certainly no man ever ran the gauntlet of political life and came through with a brighter record.

[From the N. Y. Tribune.]

Pennsylvania will this winter elect a Republican United States Senator for the six years ensuing, in the place of the Hon. Charles A. Buckalew, Democrat. We do not know who will be the candidates, but if faithful, efficient and untiring effort in securing the great triumph shall be considered, the name of Galusha A. Grow will be prominent among them.

The Erie Republican brings forward Governor Geary as candidate for United States Senator.

The Raftsman's Journal, of Clearfield, endorses what the Upper Dauphin Journal says of Mr. Schofield.

Daring Robbery.

A most daring and impudent robbery was perpetrated yesterday, between twelve and one o'clock, at the house of Ernest Axthelm, No. 103 Third avenue. Mr. A. is a machinist and agent for a sewing machine company, and it appears had collected a small sum of money, five hundred dollars of which he had invested in a five-twenty bond, which, with three hundred and sixty dollars in bank notes and some valuable papers, were in a bureau drawer in a room in the second floor of his house. About the time mentioned above, a stranger came into his establishment and inquired for a family who occupied a part of the house, and was shown up stairs by Mr. A., who returned to his work below. A short time afterward he went up stairs and found that his bureau and truuk had been broken open and the money, bond and other valuables extracted. The chisel with which the operation had been performed was found lying on the floor, and the stranger who had but a short time previous been shown up stairs had made his escape. The bond was numbered 56,731. A check drawn by Holzman & Wiederhold for sixty-one dollars was taken.

Pleasant Affair.

A number of the regular passengers on the Derry accommodation desiring to attest their appreciation of the many acts of courtesy tendered them by Mr. Walter Kirkpatrick, conductor, and Mr. James Flack, baggage master, of the train, assembled at the Union Depot on Thursday evening and presented each of the gentlemen named a beautiful badge, upon each of which were inscribed their names, followed by the words "from his friends, the Baggage Car Bummers." Appropriate speeches were made by several of the gentlemen present, which made the evening pass away pleasantly. Just previous to the breaking up of the company, Mr. Samuel Bridge, Jr., presented Mr. Kirkpatrick with a cigar two feet long, in payment of a wager that Pennsylvania would not give 20,000 majority for Grant and Colfax. Both gentlemen are staunch Republicans.

OUR LITTLE GHOST.

Oft in the silence of the night,
When the lonely moon rides high,
When the wintry winds are whistling
And we hear the owl's shrill cry,
In the quiet, dusky chamber,
By the flickering firelight,
Rising up between two sleepers,
Comes a spirit all in white.

A winsome little ghost it is,
Rosy-cheeked, and bright of eye;
With yellow curls all breaking loose
From the small cap pushed awry.
Up it climbs among the pillows,
For the "big dark" brings no dread,
And a baby's boundless fancy
Makes a kingdom of a bed.

A fearless little ghost it is;
Safe the night seems as the day;
The moon is but a gentle face,
And the sighing winds are gay.
The solitude is full of friends,
And the hour brings no regrets;
For in this happy little soul
Shines a sun that never sets.

A merry little ghost it is,
Dancing gayly by itself,
On the flowry counterpane,
Like a tricksy household elf;
Nodding to the fitful shadows,
As they flicker on the wall;
Talking to familiar pictures,
Mimicking the owl's shrill call.

A thoughtful little ghost it is;
And, when lonely gambols tire,
With chubby hands on chubby knees,
At sits winking at the fire.
Fancies innocent and lovely
Shine before those baby eyes—
Endless fields of dandelions
Brooks, and birds, and butterflies.

A loving little ghost, it is:
When crept into its rest,
Its hands on father's shoulder laid,
Its head on mother's breast,
It watches each familiar face,
With tranquil, trusting eyes;
And, like a sleepy, little bird,
Sings its own soft lullaby.

Then those who feigned to sleep before,
Lest baby play till dawn,
Wake and watch their folded flower—
Little rose without a thorn.
And, in the silence of the night,
The hearts that love it most,
Pray tenderly above its sleep,
"God bless our little ghost!"

A CONJUROR AT HOME.

TRICKS OF LEGERDEMAIN.

A writer in Belgravia describes a visit to the "magician" Hermann, at his private residence near London, and the tricks there played for the entertainment of the guests.

The dinner passed off handsomely: the viands were of the best in the season; the wine was of the choicest; conversation was brisk, if not brilliant; and good humor threw a radiance over the whole party. It was, in fact, a merry meeting; and there was just the number seated round the table to concentrate the talk and prevent the party from breaking up into knots. Herr Hermann, who was seated at the head of the table, had Skeptic placed at his right hand. This collocation, which was supposed to be accidental at the time, was designed by the conjuror. He had seen and noticed the incredulity of his guest, and was determined to make a convert of him or at all events to show off his powers at his expense.

The conversation turned upon prestidigitateurs and their various feats of legerdemain. Herr Hermann—who, having passed many years in America, and being no stranger in England, spoke English with much fluency—said, "I am well aware that all you savans have an idea how the best of our tricks are accomplished." "I should think so!" from Skeptic. "But I fancy I could puzzle even you." "Oh, indeed!" again from Skeptic. "Ay, sir, and even you," turning to Skeptic. "By all means try it." "I shall; and after dinner I will show you a few tricks, and will defy any of you to have the remotest notion how they are done." "Bravo!" from all the company except Skeptic, who laughed and helped himself to wine, and congratulated himself on being so much cleverer than the conjuror.

The tricks played by Hermann are thus described:

TRICKS WITH CARDS.

Presently Herr Hermann rings the bell, and tells the man-servant, who answers it, to fetch some cards. The man retired, and came back with two packs of cards, in secured cases, and placed them on the table. "Take one of these packs," said our host, addressing himself to Skeptic; "open the cover, and see if the cards are all right." "No preparation?" demanded Skeptic. "No, I assure you. What I am about to show now I could do with any cards." "Of course," ejaculated Skeptic sneeringly. Skeptic looked at the cards, and we all looked at the conjuror. When Skeptic pronounced the cards "all correct, Herr Hermann took them in his hands, and flinging them down on the table with their faces uppermost, said "there are eight of you. When I leave the room and the door is shut on me, let each person draw a card from the pack, return it and shuffle the cards." He left the room bidding us to recall him when we were ready. Each man took a card and put it back. Then we all had a shuffle at the pack, excepting Skeptic, who thought he knew all about the trick, and the conjuror was brought back in due time.

He took the cards in his hands. "There are eight of you," he said. "each one has drawn a card and replaced it; and the eight cards, if you have well shuffled them, should be dispersed through the pack. No eye could see into this room when the door was shut. Even knowing the cards—were that possible—would leave the seeming impossibility of bringing the eight cards together. you will all acknowledge that. Behold what art can do!" He gave the cards a sort of flourish, and placing the pack on his left palm, drew from the top the eight cards which we had drawn. He then turned to Skeptic, and with a good natured smile inquired whether he had any idea how that trick was done. Our "nil-admirari" friend laughed, and was heard to observe, "Curious, ain't it?" This trick gave rise to a good deal of talk and some disputation; but there were no two opinions about it; it was allowed by all to be the most complete and inexplicable feat of legerdemain ever witnessed.

Trick No. 2 was even more astonishing and incomprehensible. "You know," said Herr Hermann, addressing the whole party, after some discussion had gone on about the sleight-of-hand performances, "I work by wit and not by witchcraft." For wit read trick," interposed Skeptic. "But what," continued the conjurer, not heeding the interruption, "supposing I were to interpret your thoughts—to know what was passing through your minds?" "That, indeed, would be a trick above natural magic," I exclaimed. Skeptic filled his glass and winked at his neighbor, as who should say, "I know all about it." "We shall see," said Hermann. "Now, each of you two gentlemen, he went on, speaking to his two right hand guests, "think of a card; I do not ask you to touch one;" and, taking up the pack, he threw the cards front upwards on the table. The choice was quickly made. Mr. Herrmann recovered the cards, shuffled them and spread them out as before. "The card," he said, "one of you thought of is there; the card the other thought of is absent." The gentlemen searched. One of the cards selected was not to be seen; the other was found. "So far so good," exclaimed Herr Hermann; "but the trick is only half done." The conjuror took the cards again, shuffled them as before, and exposed them on the table. "Now," he cried, "the illusion is reversed. The missing card re-appears, and the card thought of that was present is not to be found. Search!" And such was the case. The cards had come and gone at the bidding of the magician, who seemed to exercise a mental rather than a physical influence over them. Wonder was expressed in every countenance, and Skeptic, annoyed because he was foiled, drank off an additional bumper to qualify him for elucidation.

A moment's consideration of this trick must satisfy everybody of its extreme cleverness and incomprehensibility. The only possible solution that offers itself is in the supposition that the conjuror, by some process of his own, was enabled to follow the eyes of the gentlemen in their direction to the cards spread on the table, and to mark those they made choice of. Knowing the cards, of course an expert practitioner would find no difficulty in manipulating them as he pleased; and getting rid of a card and returning it to the pack, contrived with whatever rapidity, is no extraordinary feat of legerdemain. Ascertaining to a certainty the cards upon which two persons have thrown a glance for the shortest possible space of time is, it must be allowed, one of the most remarkable and puzzling achievements of the conjuror's art, and may be termed the crowning feat. I do not assert that it was by this process Herr Hermann ascertained the cards his guests thought of; but if not thus, I can conceive no other method by which he made them known to him, unless, indeed, it were viritable witchcraft.

Some ten or fifteen minutes had passed, and the conversation was about to lapse into generalities, when our host rose from his seat, and taking from the table the cards went to the other end of the room. "I want to ask your opinion of a trick which, no doubt, you have often seen—your opinion as to how I do it. Will you oblige me by taking a card?" "Would you allow me to suggest the unopened pack of cards?" inquired friend Skeptic, looking around him with an air of wisdom. "O, certainly," answered Herr Hermann, "open the untouched pack yourself, and then give it to me." Skeptic removed the envelope from the new pack, and scrutinized the new cards carefully. The eyes of the company were now fixed on the pair, and no one spoke. Skeptic having satisfied himself that the cards had undergone "no preparation" handed them to the conjurer. "Take a card," said the latter. It was done. "Now take the pack in your own hands, put the card back and shuffle." Skeptic did as he was told and smiled as he shuffled the cards in a variety of ways. "It would be difficult, would it not," asked Herr Hermann, "to tell you the card you drew?" "Rather!" ejaculated Skeptic. "What if I were to do more, and make you draw again the same card?" "I should like to lay ten pounds to a half crown on that." "Keep your money, my friend, I don't want to rob you; give me the cards." He took the cards from Skeptic, and shuffling them said: "This time when you draw the card do not let anybody see it, nor say what it is until I ask you. I must do my tricks after my own fashion Draw!"

He drew. "Now place the card on the table, backward, and cover it with your hand; holding it tightly." Skeptic did as he was desired. "Now, sir, is not that card the one which you drew first?" "Certainly not!" exclaimed Skeptic, loudly and triumphantly. "Indeed," cried Hermann, "there must be some mistake." "Of course there is," rejoined the guest, "but it was your mistake!" and he laughed with much glee. "Are you sure?" "Positive." "Name the cards." "I drew the Queen of Spades first, and this under my hand is the Nine of Diamonds." "Let me look at it." Skeptic took away his hand, turned the card, and beheld—the Queen of Spades. An explosion of laughter at Skeptic's expense was followed by a volley of cheers for this wonderfully clever feat of sleight of hand, if indeed it was so, for I was utterly at a loss at the time—and am now, when I think of it—to account for the manner in which it was accomplished.

Many other tricks were exhibited in the course of the evening, but those related above are decidedly the newest and best, although some of the others would have made a common conjurer's fortune. Several times Herr Herman held out a pack of cards, and named beforehand the card any of us would draw, in spite of our efforts to foil him, and this without failing in any one instance. Of course, "passing a card" is one of the commonest tricks in card-jugglery, but to "pass a card" and name it beforehand, and "pass" it on a company so "cunning of fence" and so wary as ours, was a very different matter.

Better than "passing the card" with such magical dexterity—which we know is all achieved by rapidity and neatness of fingering—was the trick with the pear, which indeed was as inconceivable as anything shown that evening. One of the party was asked by the conjuror to take a pear from the table and mark it, then to cut a slice from it, and hand the pear to Herr Herman. This was done, and the pear given to the conjurer, who, taking it in his hand, threw it up toward the ceiling, caught it as it fell, and returned it sound and whole to the gentleman, who declared that it was the same pear he had marked, and from which he had cut the slice.

A Strong Man.

Deacon John Hitchcock, who lived in Springfield, Massachusetts, was truly a muscular Christian. A biographical sketch says of him: "He would lift a cart load of hay by getting his shoulders under the axle, in a stooping posture; and throw an empty cart over with one hand by taking hold of the end of the axletree. When loading grain in a cart, he would take a bag by the teeth, and with a swing and the aid of a push from the knee, throw it into the cart. He had double teeth in front, and would hold a tenpenny nail by them and break it off with his fingers. He used to say he did not know a man he could not whip or run away from. The day he was seventy years old he remarked to his wife that when they were first married, he was wont to amuse her by taking down his hat with his toes, and added, 'I wonder if I could do it now?' Thereupon he jumped from the floor, took off the hat with his toes. came down on his feet like a cat, hung up the hat on a nail, turned to the table, asked a blessing, and ate of the repast then ready."

JOHN M. KELLEY, of Lancaster, has in his possession a barrel and lock of a horse pistol, found in excavating earth for a new road on the the farm of John Burnett, near Chadd's Ford. The pistol, it is supposed, was used at the battle of Brandywine, on the 11th of September, 1776. Mr. K. intends presenting these articles to the Linnæn Society of Lancaster. A six-pound cannon ball was also found near the same place. The barrel of the pistol is in a pretty good state of preservation, though the flint lock has been much eaten by rust.

LAST week a remarkable and successful blast was made at the Richmond, Va., granite quarry, now owned by a company in Philadelphia. One entire block of clear, beautiful granite, measuring 100 feet long, 23 feet thick, 20 feet wide, was thrown out from the solid mass of the quarry. This immense block contains 46,000 cubic feet, 8,280,000 pounds, or 3,600 tons. This is probably the largest stone in one piece ever before quarried.

Financial Matters in New York.

Gold Closed at 133@133⅛.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, November 6, 1868.

MONEY AND GOLD.

The excitement in Wall street to-day was intense and without precedent in the history of stocks. The exchange panic this morning was about as severe as ever known, and in the afternoon the buoyancy was greater than at any time since the speculative furore for a rise about two weeks ago. The money market opened stringent at 7 per cent. on call with ¼ per cent. commission, but closed easier at 7 per cent. currency. This was occasioned by reports that the bear clique had covered their shorts and were letting out money and that the banks were lending more freely, which seems to be authentic. Sterling unsettled at 8¾@9¼. Gold opened at 132⅞; fell to 132, and closed at 133@133⅛.

GOVERNMENTS.

Governments have been panicky and prices declined ¾@1¼ per cent. At noon call there was a better feeling, with a recovery of ¼@½ per cent., and late in the afternoon there was a further advance of ¼@¾ per cent., closing active and firm. Coupons of 1881, 112½@113; do. '62, 108@108¼; do. '64, 106¾; do. '65, 106¾@107; do. new, 109@109⅛; do. '67, 109@109¼; do. '68, 109@110; 10-40s, 104½.

STOCKS.

The stock market opened with a general break. St. Paul fell to 65, and preferred to 70, upon large amounts of "puts" being presented by a leading operator. Northwestern fell to 73, and the clique stocks generally have declined 3@5 per cent. Subsequently there was a sharp rise and great activity, but at the close the market was heavy, unsettled and again lower.

RIVER NEWS.

The river continues to recede slowly at this point with five feet seven inches in the channel by the Monongahela marks last evening. Weather yesterday was very pleasant, and business was active at the landing.

No arrivals to report aside from the regular packets. The St. Charles, from Cincinnati, and Armadillo and Messenger, from Parkersburg, were due last night, and will doubtless be found in port this morning.

The R. C. Gray, it was expected, would drop down to Wood's Run last evening, where she will take on a cargo of refined oil, which is being shipped to Cincinnati by Fleming & Co., of the Ardesco Oil Works.

The G. A. Thompson leaves for Arkansas river, and all intermediate points to-day. She will take trip of the J. N. McCullough. Capt. U. B. Piersal in command.

The Maggie Hays, Capt. Barney Martin, is announced to leave for St. Louis, and passengers and shippers should bear this in miud. As we have previously stated, the Maggie is one of the best boats in the trade.

One one of the flues in one of the boilers on the McCullough gave way, while being tested by the government officials on Thursday, which was occasioned be defective iron, and she has, therefore, been obliged to defer her departure until next week. This is the first instance of the kind we have ever heard of.

The Arkansas is being pushed forward rapidly to completion, and she will be ready to take her departure for New Orleans in a very short time.

The Armadillo, Capt. D. H. Swaney, and Ida Rees, Capt. Stubblefield, are also announced for New Orleans.

The Camelia, Capt. Poe, is filling up steadily for Nashville.

The Grey Eagle, Capt. C. L. Brennan, is the regular packet for Parkersburg to-day leaving at noon.

—The St. Charles left on Wednesday, with about 200 tuns, Ben Hall, at the wheel.

—The Glasgow left Cincinnati for Pittsburgh on Wednesday, with 450 tons, and drawing 5½ feet of water. Pilots—Marsh Hays and James Hamilton.

—It is reported that the Robert E. Lee made the run from New Orleans to Natchez lately in 23 hours and 10 minutes, making thirty-one landings, and taking on two big woodings.

—The Kate Putnam was expected to leave Cincinnati on Wednesday night for this port, drawing over five feet. Pilots—Wm. Goslee, and Alf Moore. The Leonidas left the same day.

—The Louisville & New Orleans Packet Company has been fully perfected and the papers signed. The following is the order of departures of the boats of the new line: Nick Longworth. Saturday; Belle Lee, Monday; F. W. Strader, Wednesday.

—The St. Louis Democrat says: Captain Adams, president of the Memphis and Arkansas river packet line, was negotiating with Capt. Henry Symmes last evening, for the gay stern-wheeler, Guidon; price $8,000. If the matter was not concluded last evening, we are very certain it will be this morning.

WHO'S ELECTED?—"That's what's the matter." Seymour ain't. Grant is supposed to be. Who cares? Not us—you bet. If we're going to be "radicalized," why let her rip—the sooner the better—. If you know you're goin' to get a lickin' for kissin' a gal in school, why, walk right up and get it—the sooner the better. You enjoy the kiss more and the hurtin' less. Grant always was a clever feller. We know his little boy. Grant will skin the Indians now, 'cause his little boy wants to hunt buffaloes, and the injins skeers him off. He'll make the Jews and Democrats dance the highland fling for a while. Grant never says much—neither does a hog; but when it comes to gruntin' he's thar. Take it easy, boys. Grin and bear it—only four years—that ain't much. Excuse our tears; the rooster's sick. We weep—we can't—O! ah! boo-hoo!—Louisville Democrat.

Gold closed in New York yesterday at 133@133¼.

SEYMOUR has but 2,500 majority in New York, while HOFFMAN has at least three times as much. This is a proof of HORATIO's immense popularity!

GENERAL GRANT has just encountered his first serious disaster. One of the BLAIRS has published an article eulogizing him "as the second Father of his Country, if he behaves himself."

IT IS stated that the Democratic candidate for Congress against Gen. NEGLEY found himself in "a sea of troubles" last Tuesday, concerning his Presidential vote, and had not succeeded in making up his mind when the polls closed without his ballot.

THE Republicans of Titusville did much better than the telegraph gave them credit for. On an increased vote of one hundred and twenty-six their majority was reduced only nine, instead of twenty-six, as reported. It is also stated that, in two wards alone, thirty-one Republican voters were absent.

UNDER the head of "Opinions of the Press," we commence this morning republishing such expressions of opinion by our Republican contemporaries upon the United States Senatorship as fall under our notice. We shall continue to do so until the choice shall be made, in order that our readers may rightly apprehend the drift of popular sentiment on this important matter.

THE Surratt case is finally disposed of, the Supreme Court of the District declining to entertain any appeal against the previous decision of the Criminal Court dismissing the prosecution under the statute of limitation. SURRATT's name will therefore disappear from the columns of the press, unless he should volunteer to make good the rebel threat, which pledged the "dagger of Brutus" to attain what Ku-Klux terrorism could not accomplish.

LATER RETURNS change our Congressional table somewhat, giving us one more member each, in Kentucky and South Carolina, and losing one each in Maryland and North Carolina, and two in Georgia. Of the two hundred and twenty members thus far chosen, the Democrats claim eighty-one, at least two of whom will be thrown out from Louisiana and their seats vacated, and six more will give place, on contest, to their Republican competitors. New Hampshire, Connecticut and Florida only remain to elect, besides the three States unreconstructed. We add to the four districts mentioned yesterday, as sure for the Republican candidates upon a contest, two others VAN WYCK, (XIth New York) and HALSEY (Vth New Jersey) for whom the proof will be clearly in their favor.

THE WHOLE number of votes polled in Allegheny county, at the Presidential election, according to the official report, made yesterday, was 40,169, of which GRANT and COLFAX received 25,487, being a majority of 10,816. This is considerably the largest Republican majority ever polled in this county. At the late State election the majority was 8,957. In 1867, 7,239. In 1866, 7,726. In 1860, 10,000 exactly over the Fusion Democratic ticket, but there were 523 votes polled for the DOUGLAS ticket and 570 for the BELL ticket, which should be deducted from this majority of 10,000, leaving 8,910.

Of the 40,169 votes polled at the late Presidential election, 28,169 were cast in Pittsburgh, Allegheny and the boroughs and districts adjacent, which it was proposed last year to consolidate into one municipality. These districts compose what is commercially known as Pittsburgh. Computing six persons to the voter, the inhabitants of the congeries of towns, known abroad as Pittsburgh, is shown to be 169,014.

At the late election Chicago polled 39,710 votes, showing on the same basis, a population of 228,210 inhabitants. Cincinnati polled 31,276 votes, showing 187,656 inhabitants, St. Louis 39,861 votes, showing 238,086 inhabitants. Let us tabulate these figures thus:

	Voters.	Inhabitants.
Chicago	39,710	239,260
St. Louis	39,681	238,086
Cincinnati	31,276	187,656
Pittsburgh	28,169	169,014

THE ELECTORAL VOTE.

There is no longer much doubt that this vote will be divided as follows:

FOR GRANT AND COLFAX.

Maine	7	Iowa	8
New Hampshire	5	Minnesota	4
Vermont	5	Kansas	3
Massachusetts	12	Nebraska	3
Rhode Island	4	Nevada	3
Connecticut	6	Missouri	11
Pennsylvania	26	West Virginia	5
Ohio	21	Florida	3
Indiana	13	Tennesssee	10
Illinois	16	California	5
Michigan	8	North Carolina	9
Oregon	3	South Carolina	6
Wisconsin	8
Total			204

FOR SEYMOUR AND BLAIR.

New Jersey	7	Kentucky	11
New York	33	Alabama	8
Delaware	3	Arkansas	5
Maryland	7	Louisiana	7
Georgia	9
Total			90

This concurs, as to the totals, with the figures which Planchette gave us on Tuesday morning. Her only error was in giving South Carolina to SEYMOUR and New Jersey to GRANT, which, as the result proves should have been reversed.

The popular majorities seems to be about as follows:

FOR GRANT AND COLFAX.

Maine	28,000	Iowa	50,000
N. Hampshire	6,000	Minnesota	8,000
Vermont	32,000	Kansas	8,000
Massachusetts	75,000	Nebraska	4,000
Rhode Island	6,000	Nevada	1,000
Connecticut	3,600	Missouri	10,000
Pennsylvania	25,000	West Virginia	8,000
Ohio	45,000	Florida
Indiana	10,000	Tennessee	30,000
Illinois	40,000	California	1,000
Michigan	25,000	N. Narolina	7,000
Oregon		S. Carolina	5,000
Wisconsin	15,000
Total			442,600

FOR SEYMOUR AND BLAIR.

New York	2,500	Kentucky	75,000
New Jersey	2,000	Alabama	5,000
Maryland	20,00	Georgia	25,000
Delaware	2,000	Louisiana	30,000
Total			164,000

Here is a majority of nearly three hundred thousand for GRANT and COLFAX! Nor should we forget that an honest vote would have given to them New York and New Jersey; and that a full vote, if permitted by the Ku-Klux, would also have carried Alabama, Georgia and Louisiana for the Union, and the popular vote of the whole country would have shown a grand total of at least half a million majority for GRANT.

HOW THE PRESIDENT IS ELECTED.

The electors chosen by the people of the several States are required, by the Act of 1792, to assemble at the capitals of their respective States on the first Wednesday in December, being the 2nd day of that month this year, and there to vote by ballot for President and Vice President, making lists of the ballots casts for each. These are to be transmitted, before the first Wednesday in January, to the President of the Senate at Washington. On the second Wednesday in February, that officer will open all these certificates, in the presence of the two Houses of Congress, and the votes are then counted, usually by tellers designated by each House. The persons having, respectively, the greatest number of votes, for President and Vice President, provided such numbers be majorities of the whole number of electors appointed, "shall be," says the Constitution, "President and Vice President." There are other provisions in that instrument, applicable to cases when no person is found to have a majority of the whole number of electoral votes, but we need not quote them here, the votes to be given for GRANT and COLFAX being largely in excess of the majority constitutionally required.

The twenty-six electoral votes of Pennsylvania, being one for each representative of the State in the two Houses of Congress, will therefore be cast at Harrisburg on the 2d of December next, by the electors, twenty-six in number, who, on Tuesday last, received so decisive a majority of the suffrages of the people of the Commonwealth. Selected by the friends of GRANT and COLFAX for that purpose, and this claim ratified by the votes of the people, these Electors meet only for the discharge of their appointed duty, after which the College is dissolved. No legal obligation binds these gentlemen to cast their ballots for the Republican nominees, but usage, public expectation and personal honor supply, in this regard, all the needful guarantees that the electional voice of the Commonwealth shall be heard in faithful accordance with the wishes of the majority of the people. Only the death, or the declination, of either of the present candidates could entitle the Electors to exercise any discretion whatever in the support of others who have not been named in the canvass. No such case as this has yet been known to our history. The Electoral vote of each State has invariably been cast in accordance with the well understood wishes of the popular majorities by which the Electors were chosen.

THE SOUTHERN ELECTION FARCE.

Rumors from the Capital confirm our belief that the entire Democratic delegation from Louisiana and the greater part of those from Alabama and Georgia, will be rejected by the XLIst Congress, and the elections in their districts respectively will be declared void. This course will comport faithfully with the law and the facts, for it is clear that no legal elections have been held therein, anything like a fair expression of the wishes of voters having been absolutely denied under the rebel reign of terrorism and actual murder. If Congress shall do its plain duty in the premises, and order the new elections to be repeated, President GRANT will take good care that it shall be done peacefully and lawfully, and the polls at New Orleans will be as quiet and orderly as in Massachusetts or Pennsylvania.

—Papers without politics do seem very ridiculous in times of great political excitement. That excellent journal, the Philadelphia Ledger, is an example. On the morning after election, it had no editorial reference to the great event of the day before, but had instead what the Bulletin calls "a very exciting and revolutionary article on Calico printing."

PRISON DISCIPLINE.

There are three objects to be secured by our prisons. First—Confinement. The prisoner has proved himself an out-law, and so far forth an enemy of society, that he must be shut up. This is what society owes to itself, for self-preservation. This is the first object of a prison—laying hold of an outlaw and keeping him in hold, and this the word 'prison' means. Secondly—Punishment. When a man has done wrong, justice demands that he should suffer for it. It is neither safe for him nor for society, to overlook or neglect this necessary sanction of broken law. A prison must be a place of punishment; a place to make the offender feel his wrong against society; so to make him feel that it shall tend to his improvement—hence the other name 'penitentiary,' a place for suffering and repentance. This discipline has two ends: one for the good of the prisoner, whether he continues in prison all his life, or whether he is again sent out into society; the other for the good of that community of which he is to be a member. Thirdly—Reformation. This takes one step further on in the history of the criminal. It regards him as capable of improvement, even after he has began a criminal life. It simply takes for granted the common sense notion, that a man may repent, and desire to reform, and live an honest life. It is applying to criminals the teachings of the Bible: that a sinner may become a saint. As long as it is possible for a sinner to repent, it must be possible for a criminal to reform. Now no system of prison discipline that ignores these broad principles is either right or safe. Any system of confinement, or treatment, that tends to make its subject worse, is itself criminal, becomes a party to crime, a fosterer of it, and a school for it. If, by herding together the innocent and the guilty you make the old criminals school-mates to the young criminals, and educators of the innocent, (as was the common result, under the old system of congregated prisoners,) you increase, instead of diminishing the evil. You wrong both society and the criminal. It was this feeling that, in the beginning of the last century, led to the idea of separate confinement, and the classification of prisoners. With some modifications, this system of cellular confinement has been adopted in England, France, and the United States.

Pennsylvania, some forty years ago, put into practice the most rigorous form of the separate system—that of solitary confinement—shutting the prisoner up by himself, leaving him alone. Now let us see how far these several objects of imprisonment are secured by solitary confinement. The prisoner is undoubtedly safe, and society protected, and if this were all that is looked for, the system would seem perfect—except the expense. This is the wild-beast theory. The criminal is a wolf, capable neither of repentance nor reformation. All you want is to chain him. But why go to the expense of the chain? why not shoot him? But you will say, he is to be confined for only a limited time. Ah! yes, I see you want to chain your wolf to keep his wolf-nature closer, so that he may be a true wolf when he comes out again!

Clearly we all do believe imprisonment looks beyond custody. The prisoner, if again thrown on society, should, if possible, be improved. Now is it reasonable to suppose that any man is made better by suffering what he feels is unnatural and unnecessary? Solitary confinement for a long time, is unnecessary. It is unnecessary for the purpose of repentance, because any man that is shut up, and deprived of his customary freedom, has time enough for reflection and repentance without setting these bitter herbs before him as regular and sole diet, for days, weeks and years. It is unnatural as the many instances of suicide, insanity and vindictiveness prove. Madness brought on by treating criminals badly, is itself a crime. The straw seats which some kind man substituted for the wooden ones in St. Lazare, softened many a prisoner's heart. Kindness begets kindness; the criminal that has seen and felt such things is getting ready to enter society safely.

The second object of imprisonment, punishment, must, by no means, be overlooked, or slighted. Indiscriminate kindness is as demoralizing as indiscriminate severity. The prisoner's sense of justice must be satisfied. The punishment, to do him good, must carry his conscience with it. Now solitude is so long and lonesome, that it may be doubted, whether in its moral effect years are any more punitive than months. A year or two reduces the majority to such a stupid, stolid, fatuous state that, beyond that time, nothing remains but madness or deep-settled revenge; no hope, and no stimulus coming from society or fellowship. The fact that Auburn has adopted the silent for the solitary system, and that with sanitary and economic advantages, is a strong argument against our solitary persecution. Some of the French prisons allow recreation in common. The inmates dare not speak, but it is such a privilege to see the human face. In the prisons for women, feminine taste and delicacy are humored and fostered, by allowing them to wash small articles of clothing; while, in the Irish prisons, even greater liberties are permitted, and to advantage.

Another very serious objection to the solitary system, beside its injuriousness, and tendency to imbecility, and moroseness, is that it is not and cannot be carried out. Prisoners do communicate, the gas-pipes, the water-pipes, the hot-air flues, and the walls are all mediums of intercourse, and they are all demoralizing, because the prisoner knows he is breaking the rules. If, therefore, there is a single prisoner, too conscientious to use these means of breaking up his solitude, he is the very one to suffer—his loneliness dooms him, because he is too honest to break the rule.

It must be obvious that, in all cases of limited confinement, all those where the prisoner is again to become a member of society, the chief aim should be to prepare him for it. He ought to come out an honest man, with means and a character to begin a useful life.

This we call the christian theory of imprisonment, in opposition to the wild beast theory. In the latter, society looks selfishly to its own safety; in the former, it looks humanely to the welfare of the criminal, and so to its own security.

Our discipline must seek to educate the prisoner. If he cannot read and write and cypher, let these arts be taught him as a means of present pastime, and future usefulness. If he has no trade, let him learn one. It will make him a safer and more useful member of the community. If he is the victim of bad habits, break up these by privations and instruction and encouragement. Teach him the morality and the mercy of christianity, as much by example as by precepts; and if you must omit one, let it be the precept. Put over your prisoners the prisoner's friend—the man who has faith in his work—who loves it. The worst system is that which is in the hands of mere hirelings.

As further and final means of reform, the prisoner should have the opportunity of earning something against the time of his release. Either this, or the State should follow the example of Massachusetts and England, and appoint an officer to look after the released prisoner, see that he has a boarding place, a place to earn something, and a friend to advise him and sympathize with him. It is also necessary that a prisoner should have the opportunity of shortening his imprisonment. If he is put in prison because he is bad, and put in, for a longer time, because of his greater criminality, then he should be allowed to shorten his term by good conduct. This begets hope. It stimulates ambition. It educates. It preserves and elevates his manhood. If these are among the principal ends to be secured by prison discipline, it is not difficult to see that enforced solitude is not the best way to secure them. "I was in prison and ye visited me."

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

The General Conference of the Free Will Baptists, after being nine days in session in Buffalo, closed last week. From the reports presented we learn that the entire net increase of the denomination during the year has been nine thousand four hundred and twenty members. They control two colleges—Bates College, Lewistown, Me., and Hillsdale College, in Michigan. They have a Theological Seminary in New Hampton, N. H., which last year graduated six young men, and a theological department in connection with Hillsdale College. The Morning Star, published at Dover, N. H., is the official paper. Provision was made for publishing the Christian Freeman, and also a paper in New York. The Independent says that in theology they agree with the Methodists in their evangelical Arminianism and their opposition to Calvinism. In their sacraments they agree with other Baptists in requiring immersion, and allowing that only to actual believers; but they reject the dogma of close communion. In polity they are Congregational.

The forty-third anniversary of the Ohio Baptist State Convention has just been held at Cleveland, Ohio. The Convention sat apart the first week in January, as a week of prayer. Among the topics up for action was the "communion question." Resolutions were adopted re-affirming their belief in the Divinely appointed order of Baptism as a prerequisite to communion, and that in restricting their communion to those whom they consider scripturally baptized, they pronounce no judgment of exclusion as to the Christian character and standing of their brethren of other denominations. The Baptist Association of New York, adopted similar action on this question, so that it may be taken, we presume, as the doctrine generally of the Baptist Church.

According to an essay read before the late Methodist Convention in Boston—long before Phillip Embury organized the first Methodist Church in New York, and the establishment of the great Book Concern—when New England was a unit on the doctrines of Calvin—Benjamin Franklin having obtained a copy of a sermon on Free Grace, by John Wesley, printed and circulated several editions of it. Thus he won for himself the unconscious distinction of founder of the Methodist Publishing House of America.

Bishop Janes took the ground, at the late anniversary of the Sunday School Union of the Methodist Episcopal Church, that the Sunday School was to be the great agency of the Church in the conversion of the world. He said he had observed that almost all the missionaries he had aasisted to ordain, had attributed their conversion and missionary spirit to the Sabbath School.

A distinguished minister, and editor of an influential religious weekly paper in New York, argues that for ability to do the work of the ministry, whether physical or mental, there are no better years in a life time than the decade following the age of fifty-five—that is, the ten years between fifty-five and sixty-five. This view is hardly in keeping with the practice of many congregations, who have retired aged ministers and called ministers of but a few years standing to fill their places.

The increase of membership in the Methodist Episcopal Church in the United States for 1868, according to the returns not quite completed, indicate a net gain of nearly, or quite, one hundred thousand.

The Congregational (colored,) church, at Chattanooga, Tennessee, it is reported by the pastor, has not a single member who uses tobacco in any form, or who ever spits upon the church floor. The latter habit they consider ungentlemanly, and the former morally wrong.

From a printed slip from the Executive Committee of the American Tract Society, New York, giving the action of that Board upon the course of the American Tract Society in Boston, for rescinding the terms of agreement between the two Societies, it is stated, in view of the action of the Boston Society, the New York Committee avow that no just reasons exist why the Terms of Agreement, providing for an amicable adjustment of any differences between the two Societies cannot be arranged, and that they are still unanimously in favor of such a reference. The Executive Committee appointed five members as a Committee of Conference of the (New York) Society to prepare and issue such a statement of the whole subject as they shall judge the best interests of the Society may require.

Recent statistics show that the number of communicants in the Methodist Episcopal Church in the State of Massachusetts is 34,436, an increase of 2,894 since 1866. In the entire State, while the population has increased twenty-seven per cent. since 1850, the number of Methodist communicants has increased thirty-six per cent.

The New York correspondent of the Presbyterian urges as a plea for the re-union between all Calvinistic and sound Presbyterians is, to counteract the influence of Infidelity, Romanism, Ritualism, and Arminianism. He asks, Shall these control the land, or the system of sound doctrinal, biblical truth as it is in Jesus? We fancy neither the Episcopalians nor Methodists, nor the Catholics, will enjoy the classification with Infidels.

Dr. Hatfield, in an article in the October number of the American Presbyterian and Theological Review, assumes the position, with able arguments, that the ruling elder is a Scriptural officer, and that his duties and his qualifications are both described in full in the New Testament.

Andover Seminary opens this season with a course of two years, instead of three, on account of the urgent call for ministers to enter service at once, as well as for other reasons. This plan has been adopted to meet sooner the urgent calls for men to occupy destitute fields. As yet this plan is a mere experiment.

The election of Dr. Krauth, formerly of this city, to the Professorship of Mental and Moral Science in the University of Pennsylvania, in addition to his duties as Professor in the Lutheran Seminary, required him to resign the pastorate of St. Stephen's Lutheran Church, of West Philadelphia.

At the late communion service of the First Reformed Presbyterian Church of Philadelphia, forty-two persons were received into church-fellowship, nearly half of them on profession of their faith in Christ. About four hundred persons sat down at the long white tables, in the old Covenanter style, and in the breaking of bread owned and honored their Master. On former occasions about six hundred usually communed. The Presbyterian says this indicates that at least two-thirds of this congregation still adhere to the secession and the pastor, Dr. Wylie, in opposition to the General Synod.

The New York Evangelist states that fifty acres of land, unincumbered by any condition, have been given to the Moravian Church at New Dorp, Staten Island, by Commodore Vanderbilt. The burial vault of the family is in the grounds of this modest church.

A writer in the United Presbyterian thinks the habit of changing pastorates is greatly the fault of ministers themselves. Among the reasons assigned is that some ministers write their sermons, and after having a large stock on hand, leave their charges to save the labor of writing more. In a new place the old sermons can be read again.

THE CONDITION OF THOUSANDS.

No appetite; no refreshing sleep; no cheerful thoughts; no disposition to labor; no inclination for society; no interest in anything; no desire to live, even; and yet no specific ailment which can be classed as a positive disease. Thousands, ay, tens of thousands, are in this condition—the martyrs of disabilities to which pathology assigns no technical name.

What is the source of their discomfort, mental and bodily? TORPOR OF THE STOMACH; and consequent upon that languor of the circulation, weakness of the nerves, and a clouded brain. What does common sense suggest as a remedy for this deficiency in vital power? Clearly, a RE-VITALIZING MEDICINE—something that will stimulate, tone and sustain the broken-down energies of nature. HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS meet the case exactly. In this benificent TONIC are combined all the ingredients necessary to change the condition of the system, and bring the dormant organs into healthful action. In the fall of the year, when the night-dews are chill and heavy, and the morning fogs are charged with miasma, the body, debilitated by the heats of summer, is particularly susceptible to unwholesome influences. At this season, of all others, therefore, invigoration is required, both as a safeguard against fever and ague and other malarious disorders, and as a preparation for the searching cold of winter. Dyspepsia, bilious complaints, nervous disorders, and distressing affections of the bowels, are always more or less prevalent in October and November, and the surest and safest means of averting them is a course of this purest, mildest and most efficacious of all tonics and alternatives.

DISEASED LUNGS.

There is no doubt whatever that diseases of the lungs, or ulcers of whatever sort, on any of the internal organs may be and are frequently cured, and a complete condition of health established. If the elaborative functions, of which the stomach is the primary and most important one, are restored to a condition to do the repairing of the human system, ulcers or sores, whether upon the lungs, the liver, the kidneys or the bowels, or upon the legs, as is frequently the case, can be made to heal, and a complete standard of health re-established.

We have frequently seen these results from the use of Dr. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE, a pleasant and agreeable medicine, which will ripen up and carry out the animal economy all effete and used up material. Dr. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE is enriched by some of the most valuable plants and herbs known to be useful and curative in all deteriorated states of the human blood, and whilst it adds to its plasma, in at the same time stimulates, gently but effectively, the skin, the kidneys, the liver and the glandular system to sufficient action to enable the body to take on healthful action and eradicate the disease. The sick and afflicted should bear in mind the virtues of this great medicine, and if those who are sufficiently alive to the importance of health, will resort to it in the beginning of a cough or cold, there would be no falling into declines and rapid consumption, so hopelessly incurable, and so most surely fatal. Let any one afflicted with any pulmonary disease try but one bottle, and they will be convinced of the value of Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure. Sold by the gross, dozen or single bottle, at Dr. KEYSER'S Great Medicine Store, 140 Wood St.

A VERY seve monetary pressure has been produced in the leading cities of the seaboard by the operations of a powerful clique of operators in Stocks. They have become so successful in making money scarce that a very panick-y state of feeling has resulted Upon this the New York evening Post of the 5th remarks:

This fact has been associated with the result of the Presidential contest, and a partisan attempt has been made to trace it to the election of General Grant. To those familiar with the workings of the money market for the past month the claim is too absurd for serious consideration. It is well known that a powerful speculative combination was formed some time since to lock up legal tenders, and otherwise embarrass the loan market for the purpose of bringing down prices at the Stock Exchange; that their discreditable endeavors have been so successful that it is next to impossible to obtain money to carry bonds or stocks, and that accordingly holders have been forced to unload, and in doing so have sold bonds on which there was less loss than on stocks. This pressure of sales becoming general has made the panic.

NEW RAILROAD.—The Lehigh and Susquehanna Railroad Company have determined to build immediately the Nesquehoning Valley Railroad. The road is intended to make direct communication between Mauch Chunk and a point on the Catawissa Railroad, distance about thirty miles from Mauch Chunk. When this road is completed, the Lehigh and Susquehanna Company will have a short and direct route between Easton and Williamsport and points further Northwest. As the Lehigh Valley Company, by their connections, now run to the same points, there will no doubt be considerable rivalry between the two roads.

THE Boston Journal says if the top of a carret cut off at this season, or later, is placed in a saucer of water, with a few bits of charcoal to sweeten it, it will form a radiated feathery plant by no means unworthy the grace of a lady's table.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
FRIDAY, November 6, 1868.

The pressure for money is still on the increase, although at the afternoon session, quotations had considerably advanced. The pinch in the money market is partly real artificial; locking up greenbacks on an already tight money market aggravates the stringency, and forces sales of the most valuable stock license; it is supposed that those would be less affected, while the speculative shares are held in the hope of finding relief within a short period, and this is the cause of the unusual and unprecedented decline of government bonds; at present prices the purchases of new Five-Twenties will yield a profit of certainly five per cent within two weeks, and a more securer investment cannot be obtained in the market, even a first-class mortgage at nine per cent. is not as good as government bonds at present, considering the advantage of commanding one's money any moment.

Gold has scarcely suffered by the heavy decline of bonds and stocks, when considered the daily disbursements by the treasury of about one million per day.

Stocks did not quite touch as low a point to-day as yesterday, with the exception of North Western and Milwaukie and St Paul. The market was bouyant this evening on orders to buy from the interior, but another squeeze is expected to-morrow, when high rates will be demanded over Sunday. A quick reaction, and a rapid rise is expected to succeed this panic, but whether to-morrow will be the day to buy is more than any one can predict.

Money is easier here.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
FRIDAY, November 6, 1868.

There is really nothing that is new or important in the general markets worthy of special notice. The demand for almost everything is restricted mainly to supplying immediate wants and, as a consequence, we have but few round lot operations to record; in prices, however, there are no material changes.

APPLE BUTTER—Unchanged at 75 cts in kegs, and 80 to 85 in crocks.

APPLES—In demand, and we can report regular sales, at $2,50 to $3,50 for fair to prime, and $4 for choice.

BEANS—Prime small white (new crop) quoted at $3,75 to $4 per bushel,

BUCKWHEAT FLOUR—Dull but unchanged at 5 cents per pound.

BUTTER—Continues dull with a supply considerably in excess of the demand; we continue to quote prime to choice Roll at 38 to 40.

DRIED FRUIT—Dull and lower; Peaches are offered to the trade at 12 for quarters and 14 for halves. Apples offering at 10c.

CHESTNUTS—Firm and scarce; $6,75 to $7 per bushel.

CIDER—Is in steady demand with sales at $6 to $8, according to quality and size of barrel.

CRANBERRIES—We continue to quote Western at $15 to $16, and Eastern at $21 to $22.

CHEESE—Unchanged.

EGGS—Scarce and fresh packed are still quoted at 32 to 33.

PROVISIONS—Bacon is quiet, the season being about over, and besides, the supply in this market is almost exhausted. Lard is still quoted at 18c, and Mess Pork at $31.

LARD OIL—Will doubtless sympathize with the decline in Lard.

FEATHERS — Sales of Live Geese Feathers, on arrival, at 75c, and in small lots at 80 to 85c.

TALLOW—Prime rendered is in steady demand at 12c.

PEA NUTS—We can report regular sales at $2 to $2,25 per bushel, as to quality.

POTATOES—Dull, with large arrivals, and prices are lower; we now quote prime Peach Blows at 80c, in bulk, and 85c, in sacks. Jersey Sweets, $5 per bbl.

GRAIN—The grain market continues very dull, and prices are irregular. We continue to quote Winter Wheat at $1,80 to $1,85. Prime old Ear Corn is in demand at $1,15 to $1,16, while Shelled cannot be quoted above $1,09 to $1,10. New Corn is abundant and hard to sell at any price, as feeders are afraid to feed it yet. Oats unchanged at 63 to 64c. Bye dull and nominal at $1,35 to $1,38. There is no price for Barley, buyers and sellers being wide apart.

MILL FEED—We can report sales of Middlings, on track, at $2.

HAY—Baled, under the influence of large arrivals, continues dull, and prices are lower; we are reported sales at $25 to $27, for good to prime.

ONIONS—Continue very dull, with a supply largely in excess of the demand; $4 to $4,50 per bbl.

SEEDS—Flaxseed is scarce and in steady demand at $2,50. Timothy seed dull with small sales at $3. Clover seed small sales at $8.

SALT—The demand has improved somewhat within the past week, but prices remain unchanged at $1,75 by the car load, and $1,90 to $2, in store.

FLOUR—Is quiet and unchanged. We now quote at $7,25 to $7,50 for fair to good and $7,75 to $8 for choice. Rye Flour has dropped a quarter, being quoted at $8,25. The Pearl Mill prices are for Extra Family in barrels, $9,90 and in sacks $9,60 per barrel; Double Extra Family in barrels $10,40, and in sacks $10,10 per barrel. City Mills quote prices as follows: Extra Family, in barrels, $9,80, and in sacks, $9,50; Double Extra Family, in barrels, $10,30, and in sacks, $10 per bbl.

WHISKY—Is in steady demand but unchanged at $1,20 for Highwines and Rectified.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
FRIDAY, November 6, 1868.

CRUDE.

The Crude market is devoid of any new or important characteristics worthy of special notice. We can report 1,000 bbls for November, at 11; and 400 (40 to 45 gravity) on spot at 11¼. Light oil is being offered at 10½ to 10¾, while 40 to 45 gravity, is held at 11 to 11¼. The demand, as has been the case for some time past, is restricted mainly to low gravities, and buyers generally prefer making the difference above noted, as it is alleged that there is that difference in the yield. At Oil City the market is reported dull and prices nominal at $4,20 to $4,25. There is considerable discussion lately in regard to the production, and it is generally, conceded, we believe, that the yield is falling off slightly, though this is genereally the case at this particular season of the year. As to what the actual production is, it is impossible to state, though as already intimated, it is generally conceded, that is is diminishing slightly.

—Since the above was put in type we have the following reported; 2,000 bbls 40 to 45 gravity, seller's option for November at 11¼; and 2,000 same gravity, and option for December, 11.

REFINED.

The Refined market was decidedly panicky to-day, and, compared with yesterday's prices are decidedly lower. We can report 2,500 bbls last half November at 28; 2,000 do do, at 27½; 2,000 do do at 27; 1,000 do at 26½; and 500 for each half of December at 27. The stringency in the money market is the main cause for this peceptible and unexpected decline, and but for this fact, even if prices had not been fully sustained, the decline would not have been so rapid. According to the above figures, December is worth more than November, and prices are now lower than they have been for some months. Last Saturday evening spot sold up to 29½@30, while to-day, as will be seen, the same delivery cannot be quoted above 26½ to 27.

COLFAX IN PITTSBURGH.

HON. SCHUYLER COLFAX, Vice President elect, on his route eastward, remained a few hours in this city on Thursday evening, the guest of Hon. J. K. MOORHEAD. He was serenaded during the evening, by several of our Tanner Clubs, and the compliment was reknowledged by Mr. COLFAX as follows:

FELLOW CITIZENS—I am glad to see you keep your lamps brightly lit after the victory, a victory for loyalty, liberty and peace; a victory which shall say to the onlooking world that the blood of our soldiers who died shall not have been shed in vain; a victory to show rebels they are respectively but earnestly invited to take back seats. [Cheers and cries of good.] There are many things of which we have a right to be proud. We have a right to be proud of ours as the only organization in this land that when the storm cloud of war hung over it and traitors sought to make our flag the winding sheet of the world's best hope, and fired upon its defenders, we have the right to be proud that not one bullet was fired by members of our party. We have the right to be proud that not one dollar of this vast debt caused by the war was incurred by our party. No other party has a record like this. We can bequeath it to our children as the most priceless inheritance a parent ever bequeathed to his son. There is something prouder than this—no Republican ever broke the heart of a soldier's wife; upon no Republican's hands rests the blood of the brave defenders of our land. This army of orphans, made so by rebel bullets, can look upon us and say our party is not responsible for it. When the time came for the organization of this young and vigorous party of ours, we hurled it upon the institution of slavery, and made this land of ours in fact what it had been in poetry before, "the land of the free and the home of the brave!" [Cheers.] And when the military power of the rebellion was crushed, it was our organization, and ours alone, that stood as firm as the eternal hills, declaring that rebels should not assume authority in the States whose governments they had overthrown, but that "loyalty should govern what loyalty had preserved."

There is another record which we have to be proud of. Go into any other country, and wherever men stand up for liberty, even under the shadow of thrones, the men who stand up for liberty are with us in sympathy. The Brights and the Fosters of England are with us; the defenders of liberty in France, who fearlessly stand up against despotism, are with us; every one in Germany who loves the institutions of liberty is with us. We have the prayers and the sympathy of every man throughout the world who loves liberty.

As we look forward upon our land to-day, we see a glorious future. We have protection for every man, so that he can declare his own principles and his devotion to his country without fear of injury. We shall see the land, desolated by the outrage and wrong of the rebellion, redeemed and made to blossom as the rose. From mountain to mountain, and sea to sea, men shall have secured to them liberty and justice; with every man protected in his rights, then will the South join with us in the triumphal march to the future that I trust is in store for this great Republic of ours. Then in this noblest of all lands we shall go on to a brilliant future which shall rival and eclipse all generations since our Republic was born. Under the administration of President Grant we shall have a country to which the whole world shall look and say, the nobest and the most powerful, because the purest and most just land beneath the sun. (Prolonged cheers.)

And now, thanking you for your aid in this great struggle, for the magnificent majority which you recorded for the right, for your hundreds beyond the ten thousand promised by your delegate in the Chicago Convention, by which you wrote down in the volume of history in this contest of 1868, that for this sublime declaration for the right, you lead the van of all the loyal States of the Union. You are to have your reward in the prosperity of your country, in the thought of your glorious defense of the right, and in the strength which this nation shall be to the weak. (Cheers.) Let me tell you the greatest glory is not in the protection of the wealthy class, but the glory of the land is the protection of all the people; that it comes down to the humblest class, and throwing the flag of your country about it, says you shall have protection as well as the proudest in the land. The voice of the people has been spoken by your deliverer. He uttered those words more powerful than political creeds, platforms or bayonets; they were: "LET US HAVE PEACE." The millions of this country will have peace, and intend to command it by crushing out the spirit of rebellion, and thus reviving a spirit of fraternal feeling throughout the land, so that from one end to the other of our entire Republic every man shall join in the appeal. Let us have peace and justice, protection and right; and with that secured we shall have prosperity in the future.

A Chinese Mandarin's Palace.

Immediately behind the house of the Bishop rises a sharp, steep ridge of very peculiar geological formation—a mile or more in length, running towards the river. It is almost 100 feet high, wide enough for a foot path on top. It is a natural formation and divides the city of Wuchang. A tunnel has been carried through it for the purpose of traffic. Ascending this elevation, a magnificent panorama was before us—the river, with countless junks and sampans, the three cities with their thousands of houses, the suburbs, villages, green fields and luxuriant gardens, here and there a pagoda rearing its gray walls, at our feet the palace or yamum of the Govarnor General of the two central prnvinchs, a Mandarin of three buttons, ruler of from sixty to seventy millions of people. The entrance to the palace is marked by two tall flagstaffs paifited red, and half way up the staffs a sort of crow's nest, somewhat like a ship's round top. Immense banners float in the breeze from the staffs. Upon the brick wall of the first court is the representation of a firey dragon, of proportions mrre astounding than the megatherium and teoth longer than a crocodile's claws and more terrible to behold than those of a lion. Bunyan's Apolyon bears no comparison with this monster with scales like a fish, tail like a serpent's, eyes more terrible than any hobgobblin's, flames darting like lightning from his nostrils. Pendent from the eaves of the palace are a dozen paper lanterns, each the size of a uogshead. Squads of soldiers, as dirty as the coolies of the streets are lounging about the doors playing cards. Upnn the walls are paintings by Chinese artists, distnguished by gay colrs and an utter absence of perspective. Such is the cutside appearance. There mao be luxurious apatments within, but probably throughout the palace there is nothing which could be called comfortable by your readers.—Cor. Boston Jour.

GEN. HOWARD tells a story of a planter, who assembled all his hands in the spring, and told them that they must vote for the Democrats or he would not employ them. The darkies waited until the cotton was whitening, and then called on him and told him he must give his word to vote the Radical ticket, or they would leave in a body. And he did. Imagine his wrath, however, at being presented the alternative of losing his whole crop or becoming a "scalawag."

A Man With Two Hearts.

This man lives in Hartford. He is about fifty years of age, and is able bodied. He had lived upwards of thirty-five years before the phenomenon was discovered. Singular features of the case are that there are separate arterial connections between the two hearts, and the best authorities, who have given attention to the subject, agree in saying that the smaller organ performs the general functions of the body in all blood relations, while the larger appears to have a distinct existence in that matter, and only operates upon the nervous system through peculiar mechanism not entirely unfamiliar to the profession. The larger organ shows frequent unusual activity, and gives evidence of a lurking disease, which, it is said, will sooner or later carry the man to his grave. The lesser organ, dependent only upon the greater in such degree as the several organs of physical life are dependent for perfect working upon the healthful regulation of the whole mechanism, has been found to be in an almost perfect state—the same as in ordinary persons of good health, who are not disturbed by the presence of a second organ.

The effect of this second presence upon the person alluded to is at times melancholy beyond description. It has a quick, active motion, showing the presence in the arteries of a superabundant quantity of blood to vitalize the lesser organ; the man exhibits considerable elasticity of spirit, but this is only temporary; more frequently there is a sluggishness in the nervous connections, which is followed by loss of sleep and great petulancy in wakeful moments. On such occasions the family of the man find him a most disagreeble companion. He displays a mild form of insanity, which, it is feared, may develop in something worse. So severe have been some of his paroxysms of late, that a council has been called, and it has been decided that the larger heart may be removed without the least disturbing of the blood relation of the body, but the man having been approached on the subject, declares that of the two organs he had rather have the vital one of the body taken out, which cannot be done without producing instant death. This organ is situated under the vest watch-pocket of the man; the other is in the pocket where he carries his cash.—Hartford Courant.

THE entrance to New York harbor, by way of Sandy Hook, it is asserted, is slowly filling with sand. For the last one hundred and thirty years the depth of water over Sandy Hook bar has been decreasing at the rate of eight inches every ten years. In a short time it is feared that the port of New York will be closed to vessels of the largest class. Attention has, therefore, been directed to the removal of the rocks in the East river, but as Congress has merely voted appropriations for surveys of the localities and nothing for clearing out the channel, private individuals have taken the matter under consideration. At a recent meeting of persons interested in the commerce of New York, General John Newton, United States Engineer, reported that the removal of the obstructions at Hell Gate was entirely feasible, and estimated the cost at $4,000,000.

THE Gota Canal in Sweden was built by the government at a cost of nine million dollars, to connect the chain of lakes that lie between the Baltic and the Categot. The sail though this canal is said to be novel and interesting. It traverses a beautiful and fertile country, and on every side are neat Swedish towns and well cultivated fields. In passing through this canal on a large steamer the passenger finds, at sudden turns, the bowsprit thurst out into the meadows of grain among the working people, or the masts entangled in the foliage of the forests through which it winds. The canal in many places is scarcely broader than the ships, and as the traveler sits on deck, it seems as if he were making a steam voyage across the meadows and grain fields.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

Three Drunks attended Mayor Drum's levee yesterday morning.

A number of rafts of lumber bound for Southern markets passed down the Ohio river yesterday morning.

Pittsburgh has spent $48,110.39 in laying the Nicolson pavement. The number of yards laid thus far is 15,662.

Workmen commenced to remove the cobble stone pavement on Sixth street (St. Clair) yesterday morning, preparatory to the laying of the "Nicolson" on that thoroughfare.

Selling Liquor on Sunday.—Peter Donnelly made information before Alderman Taylor, yesterday, against Jacob Weigel for selling liquor on Sunday. A warrant was issued.

Surety.—Jas. A. McKean made information yesterday, before Justice Mays, against John McKean for surety of the peace. The accused was arrested and committed to jail for a hearing.

A down town saloon keeper has added a new dish to his bill of fare, and styles it the "Grecian Bend" Chow Chow. The name, perhaps, is suggestive of the effect produced by partaking of the article.

Attempted Burglary.—A burglar at an early hour yesterday morning attempted and effected an entrance into the house of Mr. Algeo, on Penn street near Sixth, (St. Clair) but was frightened away by some of the servants.

The Crimean War.—The second volume of Kinglake's great work on the Crimean War, noticed by us in yesterday's issue, is on sale at W. A. Gildenfenny's news establishment on Fifth avenue, opposite the "Old Drury." This work is worthy a place in every library.

Child Severely Burned.—A little daughter of George N. Sanders, residing in the Nineteenth ward, was very severely burned yesterday morning by her clothing taking fire while she was playing round the stove. Her injuries are of such a serious character as to render her recovery very doubtful.

Sabbath Evening Service.—Divine service will be held in the First Reformed Presbyterian Church to-morow (being Communion Sabbath) evening at seven o'clock. The pastor, Rev. John Douglas, D. D., will officiate. Subject of discourse: "The past and the present; or, an inquiry whether we live in worse times than our fathers."

Committed.—Charles Gertz was committed to jail yesterday by Alderman Irwin for disorderly conduct. Gertz is said to be demented and a source of considerable annoyance to the neighborhood in which he resides. If he be as bad as represented something should be done to have him removed to a proper place of confinement.

Brakesman Killed.—Pressly Kilgore, a brakesman on the Derry accommodation, Pennsylvania Railroad, fell from the front platform of the rear car of the train, on Thursday evening, and was run over by the car and injured to such an extent as to cause his death yesterday morning at five o'clock. The accident occurred near Derry Station. The deceased was an estimable young man, and had many friends among the patrons of the road.

Third Presbyterian Church.—An adjourned sale for choice of pews will take place at the Third Presbyterian Church, on Tuesday next at 10 o'clock A. M. There is quite a large number of the most eligibly located pews yet undisposed of, which we have no doubt will be eagerly sought after by the members and others desirous of attending divine worship in this centrally located, new and magnificent church edifice. To secure them it will be necessary to be on hand at ten o'clock sharp.

Religious Services in City Hall.—To-morrow (Sunday) afternoon, at four o'clock, there will be a Union Prayer Meeting held at City Hall, under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association of the two cities, in accordance with a resolution passed at the International Young Men's Christion Convention, held at Detroit, setting apart the Second Sabbath in November as a day of prayer, for the blessing of Almighty God to rest upon the work of the different Associations in the country. The public are cordially invited to attend.

The finest assortment of smoking and chewing tobacco, cigars, cigarettes, meerschaum pipes and tubes, and tobacco pouches, will be found, at either wholesale or retail, at the most reasonable prices, at the extensive, well conducted and popular house of John Megraw, No. 45 Hand street. The brands of this house enjoy great popularity, and are everywhere regarded as full evidence of superiority. Great care is taken in the manufacture of cigars, and those sold as imported are warranted to prove all that is represented. Call and try them.

Public Convenience.—W. T. H. Klages has set up in his elegant jewelry store, at the corner of Federal street and Stockton avenue, a fine time Regulator, manufactured with great care expressly to his order, which will enable the multitudes of both cities who are constantly passing this popular corner to look in as they pass and adjust their watches to the true time and to see also if they please a stock of watches and clocks of home and foreign manufacture, and a variety and style of jewelry unsurpassed in either city. We commend all ladies and gents to call at No. 89 Federstreet, Allegheny, and verify what we have said.

First Class Establishment.

The wholesale and retail dry goods house of Bates & Bell is, in every respect, a first class establishment. Their stock of fall dry goods, which have been purchased expressly for this market, is one of the largest ever brought to this city, and is being disposed of at remarkably reasonable prices. Persons desiring to purchase goods for fall and winter wear will find it to their advantage to call at the representative house and examine the stock before completing their purchases elsewhere. Remember the place, 21 Fifth avenue.

The Fair at the Keystone Rink.

The attendance at the Fair now in progress at the Keystone Rink was very large last evening, and every one present seemed to be delighted with the attractions offered. The Fair is proving a grand success, and those who have charge certainly deserve credit for the efforts they have made to achieve this result. The Allegheny Quartette Club, under the leadership of Professor W. H. Slack, was present and entertained the audience with a number of their choice selections, which were well received. No one should miss the opportunity of attending. The Fair will be continued until to-morrow evening.

EXTENSIVE CONFLAGRATION.

A Chair Factory and One Dwelling Destroyed—Several Other Buildings Partially Burned—Loss Fully $9,000—Two Men Injured.

About seven o'clock last night a fire broke out in the chair manufactory of Charles Reitz & Co., No. 956 Penn street, which resulted in the destruction of the building together with a dwelling house adjoining. The building in which the fire originated was a two-story iron-clad frame structure, fronting on Penn street, and running back to within twenty feet of Spring alley. Attached to the main building, in the rear, was a small, one-story shed in which was located the engine and boiler, and in this building the fire originated. When first discovered an alarm was struck from Box 63, located on the corner of Morris and Penn streets, which brought the fire department quickly to the ground, but such was the rapidity with which the fire spread that before they were fully in working order nearly the whole building was in flames. The factory contained a large amount of valuable machinery, together with manufactured stuff, which filled it in every part, all of which was totally destroyed. Fortunately the firm succeeded in saving their books and a few articles of office furniture, though in a damaged condition. The building being iron clad prevented the full escape of the flames, which, in a great measure, aided the firemen in their efforts to save the adjoining property. Mr. Reitz estimates his total loss at $6,000, on which there is an insurance of $4,000. The heaviest part of his loss was on manufactured stuff and machinery, there being over $4,500 worth stored in the building.

Adjoining the manufactory on the upper side, No. 958, was a two-story building, owned and occupied by John Bardsley. This house was of frame, filled in with brick, and was occupied on the lower floor by the owner as a lager beer saloon. The upper part was occupied by the family. Shortly after the factory had taken fire, this building ignited by sparks falling on the roof, and in a few minutes it was enveloped in the fiery element. The firemen worked very hard to save the structure, but were unsuccessful, the walls only remaining after they had ceased their labors. Mr. Bardsley lost all his household effects and about $500 of stock, in liquors, which was stored in the cellar and bar-room of the saloon. He estimates his total loss at $1,500, on which there is an insurance in the Lycoming Company of $1,150.

Adjoining the saloon were two two-story frame houses, owned by John Lockhart, and occupied by Mr. Dugan, Mrs. Welling, Mrs. Dorrington and Mrs. Bonner. Mrs. Bonner kept a small confectionary in the front room of the upper house. The flames from Bardsley's building communicated with the roof of these houses, and for a time it was feared that they also would be destroyed. The firemen seeing the impossibility of saving the other property, turned their attention more particularly to saving these dwellings, and succeeded in their efforts, the only damage being from the burning of a portion of the roof and the saturation of the interior with water. The occupants of the tenements succeeded in saving all of their goods, though they were somewhat damaged by the handling and hasty removal. Mr. Lockhart's loss will probably amount to twelve hundred dollars, on which he has an insurance in the Continental, of New York, of fifteen hundred dollars. In addition to the loss in the houses he will, however, lose about three hunred dollars by the burning of a valuable chest of carpenter tools, which was stored in a shed in the rear. He occupies a house on Spring alley, immediately in the rear of his property, and as soon as the fire broke out he removed his household furniture to a place of safety, a precaution which proved an unnecessary trouble, as the building was uninjured. On the side of the factory next to Morris street, Messrs. McKee & Douglass had stored in their yard a quantity of lumber, part of which was burned. Their loss will amount to about three hundred dollars, which we understand is fully covered by insurance.

Messrs. Reitz & Co. had a small stable erected in the rear and in one corner of their lot, which at the time of the fire contained their horse and a light spring wagon Both animal and vehicle, however, were removed to a place of safety a few minutes after the breaking out of the fire.

The fire burned for several hours, but the firemen remained at their post until it was totally extinguished, and no danger was apprehended of its breaking out again from the smoldering embers.

During the height of the excitement Mr. Dugan, one of Mr. Lockhart's tenants, was very severely injured by a brick which fell from the chimney of the house, striking him on the head, and prostrating him to the earth. He was picked up and taken into a neighboring house, and medical aid summoned. It was thought his skull had been fractured, but the physician had not arrived when we left the place.

Mr. David McClelland member of Select Council from the Twelfth ward, was also very severely injured, by being run over by the Independence Engine. It seems that Mr. McClelland hearing the alarm, ran to the Independence House and assisted in getting the steamer ready to go out. When the horses had been hitched up, he stepped forward and held them while the driver was taking his seat. At this juncture, the horses by some means became frightened and started off. Mr. McClelland was thrown down in front of the wheels of the engine, which passed over his right foot and arm, crushing and lacerating them in a terrible manner. His right hand was also crushed, and he sustained other severe bruises by the force with which he was thrown to the ground. He was conveyed to his residence near by and medical assistance procured, when his wounds were dressed.

The cars of the Citizens Passenger Railway were detained for some time by the fire, and the passengers were compelled to change cars before they could proceed. The firemen deserve great credit for the manner in which they managed to keep the fire within bounds, It occurred in a very densely populated district of our city, and but for their energetic labors the destruction would have been very much greater than it was.

FIRE MARSHAL'S INVESTIGATION.

Additional Testimony—The Accused Held for Trial.

The investigation before Fire Marshal Murphy, in the case of the burning of Bell's trunk factory, the opening of which we published in yesterday's GAZETTE, was resumed at nine o'clock yesterday morning, when the following testimony was elicited on the part of the defense:

Hugh Newsone sworn—Am acquainted with Prout; have known him for two months; on the night of the fire I was standing on the corner of Wood street and Fourth avenue; had been with him about fifteen minutes when the alarm was given; found him on the corner when I left Gilmore's shop, where I work; staid together until the crowd dispersed.

Cross-examined—At that time I boarded with Mrs. Davs; left there recently; left there because I heard that some of the boarders objected to my being there; Prout boarded at the same place; was not in the habit of going out with Prout; happened to meet him on this occasion; met him about half-past eight I think; I judge we stood there ten or fifteen minutes; we went around to the fire together; don't remember that he said anything particular on the way; Mr. Watt, foreman of Bell's shop, came to me after Prout's arrest and told me I was wanted as a witness in the case; never worked for Bell; came from Brownsville here; don't know whether Prout comes from Brownsville or not.

P. H. Palmer, sworn—Know Mr. Prout; have known him three or four months, met him on the night of the fire on Fifth street, near the old Theatre; two others were with me; it was about eight o'clock when we met him; I had an engagement, and left him with Lindsey and Packer.

Cross examined—Prout boarded at the same place with me; think he introduced me to Duffy; met Prout on the street nearly every evening; am confident I met him the night of the fire.

John M. Watt Sr., sworn—Have known Barney Duffy about six years; am foreman of Mr. Bell's trunk factory; was so at the time of the fire; on the night of the fire, about five minutes before nine, I saw Duffy standing on the corner of Water and Smithfield streets, talking to a woman; noticed that he had whitewash on his shoulders and back; mentioned to Mrs. Davis, at the boarding house, about his having whitewash on his clothes; the last I saw of Duffy before his arrest was on the 10th of October; he left the house then and went away; he never told me before the fire, or at any other time, that John Bell wanted to employ him to set fire to the factory, or any words to that effect.

Cross examined—When I saw Duffy the evening of the fire I saw his face and recognized him perfectly; did not speak to him, because I never speak to him on the street; never have since he struck me once in my house; did not shake hands with Duffy when he left the shop; don't know what kind of a hat or coat he wore on the night of the fire. The coat was whitewashed on the shoulder blades, back and skirts; when he saw me he turned his back to me.

Thos. J. Gillespie, sworn—Am bookkeeper for John Bell; am acquainted with Barney Duffey; he worked for John Bell since last June to the Tuesday after the fire; I remember when he was discharged and left the place. After I returned from dinner in the afternoon he was apparently very downcast. He came and asked Mr. Bell, who was in the office, if he should pack up his tools. Mr. Bell replied in the affirmative. Mr. Bell went out, and some of the men speaking to Duffey the latter said, "I am discharged." He seemed to take it very hard, and I pitied him; went up stairs to see him; He said, "it is a mighty hard thing to get sent away without a cent in my pocket." Although I had never had any confidence in or any respect for the man, and always despised him heartily, yet I took pity on him from the way he seemed to take the matter. I told him he had better wait until he finished the job he was at and get some money before he went away. He said no; that he did not feel like staying after the way Mr. Bell had talked to him, and he could not get along with the foreman. He came down afterwards, shook hands with me with tears in his eyes, and asked me for a dollar or two to take him to Wellsville. I refused him, but told him to finish his job.

John Bell, sworn—I am the owner of the trunk factory that was on fire October 15th. Charles Prout was never introduced to me by Bernard Duffy; I do not know him; (Prout pointed out to him) never met this man till yesterday; never talked with him; I never went into my shop after shop hours, while Mr. Duffy went in by another way; nor ever express a fear that people would see us go in together; I did discharge Barney Duffy after the fire; I never at any time coaxed him to do work for me after he told me that he had got employment elsewhere; I never held out any inducements to him, or through him to any other parties at any time in my life to have my factory burned down. (Mr. Gibson stated that it would have been unfair to Mr. Bell not to put him on the stand in this case, as being in the room, the impression might be sought to be made that he was afraid to swear to the facts. He had put four clear questions, upon which alone cross-examination would be admitted.)

No cross-examination.

This closed the testimony for the present, other testimony being held in reserve.

At the conclusion of the remarks of counsel, the Fire Marshal promptly arose with prepared papers in his hand and announced that he had determined to hold the accused in three thousand dollars bail for their appearance at Court.

Barney Duffey, through his counsel, waived a hearing, and in default of five thousand dollars bail was committed to jail. Mr. Bell entered bail and was discharged.

The Railroad Collision—Coroner's Investigation—Verdict.

The Corner's jury in the case of James Hyles, who was killed Tuesday, the 3d day of November, near Mansfield, on the Panhandle Railroad, by a collision between the McDonald accommodation train and Engine No. 10, concluded their investigation yesterday. It appears from the testimony, that Engine No. 10 was used as a helper on the railroad between Walker's Mills and Broadhead station, and had no regular time to run, but it was the duty of the engineer to keep out of the way of other trains. On the morning of the 3d inst. between seven and eight o'clock the train and engine collided at the place named, and killed James Hyles, the fireman on the accommodation train. The Coroner was notified, and on the morning of the fourth inst. he proceeded to where the body was lying and empannelled a jury, and after swearing them adjourned to meet at the Coroner's office at ten o'clock yesterday, when the following testimony was taken:

Dr. James H. Dick, Sworn—I was called to attend the injuries of deceased on the 3d inst. He was at a house near Ewing's Mill, Robinson township. I found him in a very critical condition, with his skull fractured. His chest and body were crushed, causing internal hemorrhage from the lungs. He died between one and two o'clock the same day of internal hemorrhage. I do not know how the accident occurred. Either of the injuries were sufficient to cause death.

John Blair, sworn—I was conductor of McDonald's accommodation train on the Pan-Handle road. The deceased was fireman on the engine attached to my train. We left Walker's Mills on time on the morning of the third, and the accident happened about one and a half miles east of that place. We came in collision with engine No. 10. We were one minute late, but that is considered on time. There is a very short curve at that point. The engine with which our train collided was going west, and running backwards. That engine had no right on the road at that time, and at that place. It is used as a helper between Walker's Mills and Roundhead. I was in the baggage-car and did not see the man killed. The engineer could not see more than three or four rods ahead of the train at that point. I have not seen William Bowers, the engineer of No. 10, since the day the accident occurred. Bowers told me that he had orders against all the other trains, and forgot about the McDonald accommodation.

Thomas Yates, sworn—I am engineer of No. 4 on the Panhandle railroad. I was coming east Tuesday morning; was on time till I come to Walkers Mill, and left there one minute late. Went on to Fort Pitt Coal Works; stopped about a minute, and before we had got under full headway again I saw No. 10 coming and she ran into me before I had time to do anything. As soon as I got out of the wreck, I was going forward and met Bowers, the engineer of No. 10, and he asked me if any one was killed. He said, "My God, I forgot all about the McDonald accommodation." As soon as I saw the No. 10 coming I hallooed, and the fireman did not pay much attention to it. The first thing I saw after the collision was the fireman pitching head foremost against the boiler; he had just gone up in the tender for a shovel of coal. There was nothing fell against him but the coal in the tender. His body was covered with the coal, all except his head. When he was taken out he was still living. The engineer of No. 10 had no orders to run against us or any other regular train. He had his orders to go to Walker's Mills and do his work ahead of some Western bound trains, but not to run against us. He showed me his orders after the accident.

James Moore, sworn—I am baggage master on No. 3, McDonald's accommodation. I did not see any of the accident until after it was over. We were running at the rate of twenty miles an hour. I saw Bowers, the engineer, about five or ten minutes after the accident, but have not seen him since. He went away and left his engine.

R. V. Thompson, sworn—I am brakeman on the McDonald accommodation, No. 3. I was sitting in the hind coach, and the first thing I knew of the accident we came together. I did not see the engine before the collision. I saw Bowers after the accident. I asked him what he was doing there, and he replied "that is for you to tell." I told him I thought he had no business there. The accident occurred between seven and eight o'clock. I saw Bowers about half past one o'clock that day at Mansfield; did not speak to him; have not seen him since.

Charles Rogers, sworn—I am fireman of No. 10; have been on it for about two weeks; was on it on Tuesday at the time of the collision. I saw the train coming, and told Bowers, who was working at the pumps at the time. He shut off the steam and tried to stop the engine, but could not do it. I did not know anything about his orders. He told me that morning that there was a wreck at Birminham, and that all the night trains passed. He left his engine a few minutes after the accident and went east. I understood him to say he was going to flag the express train, and have not seen him since. Bowers was a steady man. He told me that he did not know there was any train on the road.

The jury found that the deceased, James Hyles comes to his death Tuesday, November 3d, 1868, from injuries received by a collision between the McDonald Accommodation train on the Panhandle Railroad and engine No. 10 on said road, near Mansfield, in Robinson township, and the jury further say that the accident was the result of the carelessness of William Bowers, engineer of No. 10, not running on his time.

District Court—Judge McCandless.

Court opened yesterday morning at the usual hour, when the case of the United States vs. William Wilson, indicted for embezzling letters from the mail bags, reported on trial yesterday, was resumed. The following additional testimony was taken on the part of the prosecution:

Miss Emma R. Allen, sworn—Reside in Washington county, five miles from Monongahela City; deposited a letter for the purpose of having it registered in that Postoffice; it was addressed to Harper Bros., New York; I gave it to Mr. Collins; [witness here exhibited a receipt for it.] The letter was written by my father; do not know what it contained.

Geo. W. Allen, sworn—Am father of the previous witness; sent a letter to the Monongahela Postoffice to be registered by my daughter; the letter contained three dollars.

L. R. Boyle, sworn—Reside at Bellevernon; know a man named A. C. Nutt, a resident of Uniontown, Pa.; addressed a letter to him on the 6th of June last, as Deputy Collector; in contained something over $24; the letter was enclosed in a registered package envelope; am assistant Postmaster at Bellevernon; the mail could be carried to Uniontown by the way of either Brownsville or Pittsburgh; took the mail pouch, containing the registered letter, to the Franklin on the 6th of June; there was low water at the time; the boat was passing down the river; George W. Smith was the route agent.

George W. Smith, sworn—Was second clerk and route agent on the steamboat Franklin on the 6th of June last; I received the mail that day; the boat was on the downward trip; we carried the mail to lock No. 3, where it was changed; had a registered package envelope, No. 4; the record is on the Franklin, now at Brownsville.

The witness was recalled and stated that the Franklin connected with the steamboat Active; he did not receipt for the registered package; it was placed in the mail bag; he receipted to the Postmaster at Uniontown.

On cross-examination witness stated that the package was put in the through mail for Pittsburgh, and that when he had a registered package he endeavored to get rid of it as soon as possible.

S. C. Speer, examined yesterday, was recalled. There were no registered letters on the 6th of June; left the boat that day opposite Bellevernon; left Mr. Wilson in charge of the office; on the 6th of June the Bennett ran from New Geneva to Pittsburgh.

Cross examined—Witness was shown the record book for registered letters and was asked if he had given it to Wilson to use; he said he had not. Witness continued. Never instructed him to make entries in the book; attended to that myself; don't recollect of seeing him handling the book; it was left in a drawer which was sometimes locked. The mail pouches were sometimes left just outside of the office; when the river was at a proper stage we would arrive at Pittsburgh about nine o'clock in the evening; it usually laid in the office during the night, and would be given to the man who conveyed it to the Postoffice, either by myself or Mr. Wilson.

Several other witnesses were examined on the part of the prosecution, but there was no evidence of any importance elecited.

The prosecution then closed, and the defease was opened by R. Biddel Roberts, Esq., at the conclusion of which Court adjourned.

The Fair at the Keystone Rink.

We looked in on Friday afternoon upon this fair, which attracted such numbers of people the last two evenings. It is, as the advertisement has it, mechanical, artistical, pictorial. The Art Gallery is a collection of amusing absurdities, and is quite fruitful of dimes. There is a large display of paintings and engravings, among which visitors will notice a full length portrait of the eminent Bishop Simpson; a portrait in oil of the late lamented Colonel Hull; a great variety of pictures that are good, bad and indifferent; and among these will be observed a set of engravings of the Sixteenth century, very curious specimens of ancient art. An unusual feature in this kind of a fair is a variety of models of steam engines, brickmaking machines, washing machines, churns, plows, and other agricultural implements; also of cabinet furniture, of which some choice articles are to be disposed of this evening by chances. There is a fine display of specimens of pottery from the works of S. M. Kier & Co., which, as a new article of city manufacture, will excite the surprise of visitors as being quite equal to the imported article. Honor is due to Messrs. Kier & Co., the pioneers in this branch of manufacture in Pittsburgh. Housekeepers will find a good display of house furnishing articles, including stoves of recent invention, "Hot Air," "Morning Glory," "Base Burners," "Oriental," &c.; also of glass ware and wooden ware. The list of fancy articles is not large. Utility seems to have governed the management, and in this spirit ample supplies of refreshments, oysters and coffee, cakes and confections, for the inner man. We must not omit reference to a case of very elegant and valuable silver plated ware, comprising a variety of articles just suited for holiday or bridal presents. The Committee in charge seems to have done everything in their power to deserve success, and the good purpose to which the proceeds are applicable, should cause a generous community to crown their labors with success.

Col. J. D. Eagan has on hand a large and well selected collection of new and valuable books from private libraries. Also Sabbath School library books, which he is selling at half price.

The Diamond Front.

It will be to the advantage of housekeepers and the public generally to call at the original Diamond Front Grocery Store, No. 164 Federal street, Allegheny, if they desire to purchase a first class article of groceries, teas, coffees, spices, etc. Mr. Henderson George, the gentlemanly proprietor, is one of the leading business men in the two cities, and by fair and honest dealing and keeping only a first class article of goods, has built up an immense trade. Parties who deal with him once seldom have occasion to go to any other establishment.

NEW YORK, August, 7th, 1868.

MR. EDITOR:—Several of your correspondents, very old old and respectable no doubt, seem to be wonderfully exercised as to the origin of our PLANTATION BITTERS. So long as these Bitters are all that we represent them to be, we do not know that it makes any difference from whence they come, or from whence they originated; but for the information of the public generally, and old Capt. Wentz in particular, we will say that he told the truth, and that these Bitters originated in the West India Islands—that many of the ingredients have been favorably used for over a century, but our combination of Cailsaya is entirely new, and our own. The rum and other materials are the same, and as your correspondent says, a better Bitters and Tonic is not made. We recommend them particularly for dyspeptics, fever and ague, debility, loss of appetite, and in all cases where a tonic and stimulant is required.
